Opening Ancient Doors

Prophet Blessing Olanijulo

The long-awaited Mercy Convention 2026, themed “Unending Open Doors” finally commenced in an atmosphere charged with worship, expectation and the palpable presence of God.

NIGHT ONE · WEDNESDAY 14 OCTOBER 2026

The Opening Night

From the main auditorium to the overflow, the gathering witnessed an outpouring of praise and worship as members and guests assembled for the first of nine extraordinary nights. The atmosphere was one of spiritual anticipation, setting the tone for what would become an unforgettable encounter with God.

The convention opened with an intense session of praise and worship, ushering the congregation into a time of heartfelt fellowship with God.

In his opening charge, the Senior Pastor, Pastor Daniel Olawande, drew attention to the significance of the midnight season, describing it as a period when the enemy often operates, but also a strategic time for those who understand the power of prayer to seek divine intervention and deliverance.

Taking his text from Exodus 11:4, he encouraged members not to treat the convention as an ordinary gathering but to maximise the opportunity through fervent and intentional prayers.

PSALM 24:7

Opening Ancient Doors

The first guest minister of the convention, Prophet Blessing Olanijulo, delivered a message titled "Opening Ancient Doors," with his scriptural reference from Psalm 24:7.

He explained that ancient doors represent long-standing, generational doors of opportunities that may have remained shut for years. According to him, accessing such doors requires spiritual understanding, discernment and the strength to confront foundational challenges.

In his teaching, Prophet Olanijulo highlighted some of the spiritual factors that may stand in the way of generational opportunities.

1. Long-standing spiritual altars

He described altars as places of spiritual power where destinies can be influenced. Emphasising the need to understand the spiritual foundation of certain challenges, he made a striking statement: "Spirits don't die, powers can die."

> "Spirits don't die, powers can die."

2. Blood connection

He also spoke about blood connections, explaining that, in the spiritual realm, there are connections that extend beyond an individual. This, he noted, makes it important to understand the influence of one's spiritual and generational background.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Among the notable lessons from the ministration were:

01 Spirits may continue to exist, but spiritual powers can be overcome.

02 Giftedness alone may not be enough; unresolved foundational issues can become obstacles to fulfilling one's potential.

03 Wisdom and discernment are essential in navigating life's decisions.

04 "Don't marry for television, where there is no vision."

A CALL TO PRAYER · PROPHET BLESSING OLANIJULO

“Spirits don’t die, powers can die.”

The first night concluded with a call to action, as members were encouraged to tarry in prayer and seek God’s intervention in opening ancient doors.

Beyond the powerful ministration, it was also a moment for personal reflection, spiritual sensitivity and renewed commitment to prayer.

Day One had set the spiritual tone for the eight days that followed, stirring expectations for more encounters, revelations and testimonies.

Indeed, the opening night was more than a commencement, it was an invitation to a deeper journey of faith, prayer and the experience of God’s unending mercy.

Chapter 02
Winning the War at the Border Crossing

Reverend Dr. Moses Aransiola

The spiritual momentum of Mercy Convention 2026, themed “Unending Open Doors”, gathered greater intensity on the second evening as worshippers converged at the auditorium, with participants also joining from different parts of the world.

NIGHT TWO · THURSDAY 15 OCTOBER 2026

Day Two

Following the remarkable encounters of the opening night, Day Two ushered the congregation into another dimension of spiritual engagement, marked by passionate worship, fervent intercession, prophetic declarations and a timely message on overcoming barriers to destiny.

The evening opened with an energetic session of praise and worship, featuring musical ministration by guest minister, Min. Shollymoore. The atmosphere was charged with thanksgiving and reverence as the congregation lifted their voices in worship.

This was followed by focused sessions of intercessory prayers. Pastor Osaito (APICP CSR YP20) led the congregation in prayers anchored on Hebrews 4:16, urging believers to approach God's throne of grace with confidence, trusting Him for mercy and grace in their times of need.

In another powerful prayer charge, Pastor (Dr.) Oluwanifemi Olawande (WPICP YP20) drew from Acts 9:39–42, emphasising the place of fervent prayer in securing divine intervention. The congregation was challenged to pray with faith and expectation, believing God for swift answers.

The atmosphere of prayer was further enriched by testimonies of answered prayers. Members shared accounts of God's faithfulness, including successful visa applications, family breakthroughs and supernatural blessings. These testimonies served as reminders of God's ability to intervene in the affairs of His people.

THE OPENING CHARGE

A God Who Does It Again

In his opening charge, the Lead Pastor, Pastor Daniel Olawande, stirred the congregation's faith with a message centred on the biblical declaration: "When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion..."

Drawing attention to the word "again," he highlighted God's ability to repeat His mighty acts and bring about new testimonies. He encouraged members to remember God's previous interventions and trust Him to do even greater things.

He also warned against the spirit of forgetfulness, stressing the importance of spiritual preparedness, remembrance and persistent prayer. The charge transitioned into an intense prayer session, as Pastor Olawande led the congregation in declarations for divine intervention and a reversal of unfavourable situations.

"When the Lord turned again the captivity of Zion..."

DEUTERONOMY 1:6–8

Winning the War at the Border Crossing

The guest minister for the evening, Reverend Dr. Moses Aransiola, took the congregation deeper into the subject of spiritual advancement with a message titled "Winning the War at the Border Crossing." His teaching was anchored on Deuteronomy 1:6–8.

Drawing from God's instruction to the children of Israel to leave Mount Horeb after dwelling there long enough, he explained that believers must recognise when it is time to move beyond familiar territories and advance into their God-ordained inheritance.

He described the border as a significant point of transition between one territory and another, explaining that those destined for new levels of fulfilment may encounter resistance at the point of crossing. According to him, understanding the nature of these battles is essential to overcoming them.

Reverend Aransiola highlighted three important dimensions of the border-crossing experience:

The Nature of the Border

A border represents an entry point into a new territory, season or level of advancement. It marks the transition from one phase of life to another. He explained that such moments can attract opposition, making it necessary for believers to remain spiritually alert and prepared.

02

Gatekeepers of Destiny

He also spoke about gatekeepers, describing them as spiritual forces and structures of authority that may contend with an individual's advancement. He charged the congregation to recognise and confront whatever stands as a barrier to accessing their God-ordained opportunities.

03

Recognising a Border Moment

The minister identified certain experiences that may indicate that a person is at a critical point of transition. These include standing at the threshold of a major life milestone, promotion or new opportunity; experiencing unexpected resistance despite adequate preparation; and repeatedly coming close to significant breakthroughs in marriage, career or important projects, only to encounter setbacks at the point of fulfilment.

THE SPIRIT OF ALMOST

> He referred to this recurring experience as the "Spirit of Almost," urging believers not to accept a pattern of near-success as their permanent reality.

STRATEGIES FOR VICTORY

Strategies for Victory

Moving from the understanding of spiritual borders to the strategies for overcoming them, Reverend Aransiola emphasised the importance of intentional and strategic prayer.

1
Strategic Prayer with Spiritual Precision

He explained that prayer must be purposeful and guided by an understanding of the issues being addressed. Using vivid expressions, he cautioned against praying without direction, encouraging believers to engage relevant scriptures as spiritual weapons targeted at specific challenges.

2
Prophetic Actions

The ministration also highlighted the place of prophetic actions in prayer. He encouraged believers to complement their declarations with intentional acts of faith, including laying hold of the altar, making declarations at the gates of destiny and prayerfully circling situations as expressions of their faith in God's promises.

Breaking the Spirit of Almost

A significant part of the message focused on overcoming the pattern of near-success. With passionate exhortations, Reverend Aransiola charged the congregation to confront every barrier hindering their progress and to refuse to remain at the threshold of their breakthroughs.

SCRIPTURES FOR THE JOURNEY

The minister further drew attention to key biblical passages that reinforced his message: Deuteronomy 1:6–8: A divine instruction to move beyond prolonged dwelling and advance towards the possession of one's inheritance. Mark 1:35: An example of the importance of setting aside time for prayer and seeking divine direction. Isaiah 45:1: A prophetic declaration concerning opened gates, broken barriers and access to new territories.

A NIGHT OF PROPHETIC DECLARATIONS AND DELIVERANCE

A Night of Prophetic Declarations and Deliverance

The message soon gave way to an extended session of intense prayers and prophetic declarations. The congregation was led to confront spiritual resistance, contend for open doors and declare freedom from limitations standing in the way of their advancement.

Prayers were offered against contrary spiritual records and forces contesting their progress, with members declaring the opening of previously inaccessible doors.

In a series of fervent declarations, Reverend Dr. Aransiola prayed over the congregation, addressing issues of rejection, hatred and generational limitations. He also declared restoration across different areas of life, including health, careers and academic pursuits, using the expression “factory settings” to illustrate a return to God’s intended order.

Pastor Daniel Olawande subsequently prayed for the guest minister, releasing blessings and increased grace upon his life and ministry.

Before the close of the meeting, members were also informed of upcoming activities, including the 10:00 a.m. morning session, proposed prayer school initiatives for students of intercession and practical institutional support through the More Money partnership.

BEYOND THE BORDER

Day Two came to a close with a benediction, but the message remained clear: advancement requires spiritual preparedness, intentional prayer and the courage to move beyond familiar territories.

From the testimonies of answered prayers to the powerful teaching on border crossings, the second night reinforced the expectation of the convention’s theme “Unending Open Doors.”

It was another night of renewed faith, spiritual instruction and fervent intercession, leaving the congregation equipped to confront barriers, cross new frontiers and take hold of the opportunities ahead.

The journey continued, and the expectation for the remaining days grew even stronger.

Chapter 03
Unending Open Doors

Pastor J. T. Kalejaiye

The third day of Mercy Convention 2026, themed “Unending Open Doors” (Àwọn Ilẹ̀kùn Àìtàsé), unfolded in an atmosphere of deep worship, joyful expectation and spiritual anticipation. As the congregation gathered in the main auditorium and overflow sections, the atmosphere was filled with praise and an expectation of another divine encounter.

NIGHT THREE

Celebrating Victories

DAY THREE: UNENDING OPENED DOORS

From the opening moments, worshippers were drawn into an atmosphere of heartfelt devotion, as voices rose in worship and the sanctuary resonated with songs of praise. It was another opportunity to reflect on God's faithfulness and anticipate the possibilities of His unending mercy.

CELEBRATING VICTORIES AND DECLARING NEW DOORS

In his opening charge, the Lead Pastor, Pastor Daniel Olawande, encouraged the congregation to rejoice over God's past interventions while maintaining faith for the victories ahead.

Drawing from Genesis 26:13–14, he urged members to see themselves in the Scriptures, recognising that the testimonies and experiences recorded in God's Word can also inspire their faith and expectations.

He subsequently led the congregation in prophetic prayers, calling forth unending open doors and encouraging members to position themselves for the opportunities God had prepared for them.

A WORSHIP EXPERIENCE WITH MINISTER TOPE ALABI

The atmosphere of worship reached another dimension with the ministration of renowned gospel music minister, Minister Tope Alabi.

Through a profound session of worship, she led the congregation into an atmosphere of heartfelt praise and reverence. The sanctuary was immersed in worship as members lifted their voices, expressing gratitude and devotion to God.

Her ministration became one of the memorable highlights of the evening, further deepening the spiritual atmosphere and preparing the congregation for the Word.

MATTHEW 7:7

Understanding the Keys

UNENDING OPEN DOORS: UNDERSTANDING THE KEYS

The guest preacher for the evening, Pastor J. T. Kalejaiye, delivered a message titled “Unending Open Doors,” with his scriptural anchor from Matthew 7:7:

> “Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you.”

Building on the convention’s central theme, he explained that doors can either be open or shut, but there are different ways through which access can be gained. He highlighted several principles for accessing new opportunities and overcoming barriers.

FIVE WAYS DOORS CAN BE OPENED

1. Through Knocking

Drawing from Matthew 7:7, he explained that knocking represents persistence, asking and seeking. Believers must be willing to approach God continually in faith, trusting Him to respond.

2. Through the Right Keys and Passwords

He emphasised that certain doors require the appropriate keys or access codes. Referring to the account of Paul and Silas, he recalled how their prayers and praises, even while imprisoned, preceded a supernatural intervention (Acts 16:25–26). He encouraged the congregation to understand the power of praise as a spiritual key.

3. Through Your Presence

Pastor Kalejaiye also highlighted the influence of one’s presence, explaining that there are doors that open through the relationships, opportunities and divine connections associated with being in the right place.

4. Through Forceful Access

He spoke about situations that require determination, courage and persistence. Some opportunities may demand that believers rise above resistance and refuse to surrender when faced with challenges.

5. Through Divine Intervention

The preacher reminded the congregation that some doors can only be opened by God. Beyond human effort, divine intervention remains essential in accessing opportunities that may otherwise seem impossible.

FAITH · PERSISTENCE · PRAISE

Waiting on God

KEY LESSONS FROM THE MINISTRATION

Among the memorable lessons from the message were:

- Doors can open through divine attention and intervention.
- Your vision is a function of your future; what you see and pursue can influence the direction of your life.
- Keep moving and keep praising God, even when the expected breakthrough has not yet manifested.
- It is better to be waiting on the Lord than to be wasting on the Lord.

The last expression particularly challenged the congregation to understand the difference between purposeful waiting and unproductive delay.

THE POWER OF WAITING ON GOD

As the message progressed, Pastor Kalejaiye offered further insights into the place of patience, preparation and divine timing.

He encouraged believers to remain where God had positioned them and continue doing what He had called them to do, explaining that blessings and opportunities can meet those who remain faithful to their assignments.

In one of his striking illustrations, he declared:

> "It is better to be at the back of a lion than at the back of a cow."

He also reminded the congregation that difficult seasons do not necessarily signal failure, noting that sometimes things must become bitter before they get better.

On the subject of preparation, he explained that seasons when people are not yet experiencing the manifestation of their desired results may be seasons of training. His charge was clear: those who are not reigning yet may still be undergoing the preparation required for the responsibilities ahead. When the training is complete, the season to reign will come.

A NIGHT OF REFLECTION, FAITH AND RENEWED EXPECTATION

The third night was a reminder that accessing open doors involves more than desiring opportunities. It calls for faith, persistence, vision, praise, patience and an understanding of God's timing.

From Pastor Daniel Olawande's opening charge to Minister Tope Alabi's worship ministration and Pastor J. T. Kalejaiye's illuminating message, the evening offered the congregation another opportunity to grow in faith and deepen their understanding of God's promises.

Day Three ended with a renewed call to wait on the Lord, remain faithful and keep moving in the direction of His purpose.

It was more than another night at the convention; it was a timely reminder that while some doors require knocking, others require the right keys, persistence or divine intervention. Above all, the congregation was encouraged to trust the God who has the power to open doors that no one can shut.

The journey of Unending Open Doors continued, with expectations rising for the days ahead.
